Lieut. Commander Prien Tells How His
U-Boat Invaded Scapa Flow To Sink
Big British Ship When At Anchor

BERLIN, Oct. 18—A further French retreat on the Western Front was claimed today by the German high command, which added that numerous French prisoners had been taken.

An official war communique stated:

"Between the Moselle River and Pfalzterwald, the French evacuated further positions in German territory along the border, which our advancing troops occupied, taking numerous prisoners."

The short communique regarding activity on the Western Front was preceded by a general headquarters announcement regarding the German aerial attacks on the British naval base at Scapa Flow. It said:

"Air force detachments successfully attacked units of the British battle fleet at Scapa Flow."

"Among others, one battleship was hit by heavy and medium caliber bombs. One enemy fighter was shot down in the ensuing air duel. "Despite the heaviest anti-aircraft fire, all our planes except one safely reached their home bases."

Sub Captain Lauded

At noon today Chancellor Hitler received Lieut. Commander Prien, captain of the submarine which invaded Scapa Flow harbor and torpedoed the British battleship Royal Oak, and the entire crew of the U-boat.

The Fuehrer formally thanked Prien and the crew for their feat. While he received them, thousands of persons crowded the square in front of the Reich chancellery and gave the submarine crew an ovation. Earlier Prien in a talk with newspaper correspondents said he chose Scapa Flow for his raid because his submarine had not sighted a single hostile warship during the first six weeks of the war.

Heavy Line Forms To Halt
Production; 11,000 Men
Out Of Work

DETROIT, Oct. 18—A heavy picket line was thrown around Chrysler Corporation's Dodge plant today, putting a strike into effect at the plant which has been unable to produce any automobiles for nine days because of a production speed controversy. Company spokesmen estimated that 1,000 pickets were massed outside the plant gates and that only a few hundred of the normal shift of 11,000 workers entered the plant.

A few departments were operating on a drastically curtailed schedule.

International President R. J. Thomas of the CIO's Automobile Workers Union authorized the strike last night.

A company spokesman termed the strike an "intensified production strike," and said the "slow down" against production has been in progress since August 15.

Thomas said the union is demanding reinstatement of more than 100 discharged workers and the right to a voice in the planning of production speeds.

FORD COMPANY

OUT OF PLANT

DETROIT, Oct. 18—Forty Soviet Russian engineers and 11 "local communists" were ejected from Henry Ford's River Rouge plant today on charges of attempting to bribe minor Ford officials to gain access to blue-prints of new engineering developments.

Personnel Director Harry Bennett said the engineers have been in the Ford plant nine years with the permission of Henry Ford to study American production methods.

He said they are members of the Autostroy Division of Amtorg Corporation, the Soviet American commercial agency.

The 11 "local communists," he said, were taken on as interpreters.

Bennett charged the 11 "communists" attempted to spread propaganda in the plant and that during the riot between Ford employees and members of the CIO's Automobile Workers Union in May, 1937, were inside the plant distributing leaflets.

Bennett said:

In Atlantic Storm

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—Many persons aboard the United States liner President Harding, en route to New York with Americans fleeing war-torn Europe, were injured when the ship was battered by a severe Atlantic storm, coastguard headquarters announced in New York today.

A coast guard cutter, which intercepted the President Harding's appeal for assistance, is rushing to her aid. Also dashing to the assistance of the ships was another coastguard cutter, the Duane from Boston, the steamship Washington and the British steamer Port Townsend.

The message gave the liner's position as approximately 600 miles off the New England coast. It did not state how many were injured when heavy seas pounded the ship but stated that one person had been burned.

"Many seriously injured in heavy weather," said the President Harding's message picked up by the coastguard cutter Hamilton off Boston and relayed to shore stations. "Send morphine, codeine, splints, fracture supplies. Remove injured. One seriously burned."

596 Persons Carried

The President Harding has 596 passengers aboard. The coastguard cutter Hamilton picked up the distress call and advised headquarters she was proceeding to rescue.

The Hamilton also advised that the steamer Washington is proceeding toward the Blairbeg, 160 miles south of St. John's, Nfld., and hopes to reach it within 16 hours. The Port Townsend advised that it could reach the Blairbeg's position within 13 hours. The ship, Mackay radio said, lost its rudder.

Coon Brothers Back After Couple Years' Vacation;
'Mighty Atom' Returns

'Pumpkin Show Fever,' an enjoyable ailment that grips Circleville and Pickaway County about this time each year, was prevalent Wednesday as the big festival got under way. Housewives were doing up their work in the fastest manner possible; brother and sister were jittery awaiting the close of school so they could get to the business district to see just what was going on, as though they didn't know; dad was taking things in stride, awaiting the opportunity to put work aside and to join in the swing of things that make the big Pumpkin Show what it is.

The program started at noon, but festivities will not reach the fever pitch until 8 o'clock when the first parade, that which will see "Miss Pumpkin Show 1939" crowned, is staged. Then will come the parade of the various exhibits, many of which were taking form early Wednesday afternoon and filling up until this morning.

The pumpkin display, for which the show is named, was given a boost when the three Coon brothers, Donald, Frank and George, trucked their pumpkins and squashes into Circleville. The Coon brothers have been out of competition for a couple of years. Their display took all the tables on the east side of Court Street from Watt to the first alley north. Their biggest specimen weighs 71 pounds; it is a squash. Entries from the Kreisler farm and from the property of William Duvall taxed the space provided for the pumpkins. Duvall's pumpkins filled the pyramid at Court and Main Streets, a new feature of the show.

Fancywork, poultry and pets, candy, cakes, bread and butter, fruits, vegetables, grains and other displays were being put into their assigned spaces. Joe Burns, who heads the flower department, said that his display is certain to be short because of the extreme cold weather of the last week. "We'll have some flowers, though," he said. None of the flowers had been entered yet Wednesday, Thursday morning being the usual time for the entries to be filed. The (Continued on Page Two)

Bright skies and mounting temperatures gave Circleville's 36th famous Pumpkin Show a perfect start Wednesday noon.

Crowds moved into the city from all directions during the afternoon for the celebration that promises to be the greatest in many years if proper cooperation is received from the weatherman. The show continues through Saturday.

Show officials were kept busy Wednesday receiving entries in the various departments until Thursday.

The show was officially opened with selections on the Foreman chimes, band music, whistles of industrial plants and the usual noises of the midway.

Receipts Go Up

Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary of the Pumpkin Show, announced at noon that receipts from space sales would surpass those of the 1938 show. Although concessions have been limited this year the receipts will be larger, he explained, due to increases in the price for space.

First major feature of the big show will be the Miss Pumpkin Show Parade at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

In addition to the two Circleville High School bands, the Hallsville band and the American Legion Drum Corps, this parade will be led by the widely known Elks Symphonic band of Columbus. The Elks band will play a concert in front of the B. P. O. Elks home following the parade.

12 Entries Listed

Twelve girls sponsored by Circleville and Pickaway County high schools will vie for the title of Miss Pumpkin Show. The girls will ride in the parade in cars decorated in their school colors. Selection of the winner will be by personality, beauty and appearance. The winner of the title and her two attendants will appear in all parades throughout the show. The first prize winner receives $35, the second $15 and the third $10.

Two Changes Made

Two last minute changes in parade plans were announced Wednesday by Dan McClain, parade director.

Judging of the Miss Pumpkin Show entries will be held prior to the parade with the winners to be announced at the close of the parade. This change was made due to difficulties in former years of judging the entries amid a huge crowd of spectators. The judging will be in the Gas Company offices. Only the entries, judges and participants will be present. (Continued on Page Two)

NEW PATROLMAN

LONDON, Oct. 18—Great Britain bolstered her anti-submarine and anti-aircraft defenses today after German bombing planes struck twice at the Scapa Flow naval base, damaging the 21,250-ton battleship Iron Duke, now a naval training vessel.

The Iron Duke, Admiral Jellicoe's flagship at the World War battle of Jutland, was damaged in the first German raid.

According to an official announcement, one German plane which participated in that sortie was shot down and another probably severely damaged. A third German plane was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire during the second Scapa Flow raid.

German planes also flew over the English and Scottish east coasts, but the air ministry announced two of these craft were shot down by British pursuit planes. The crew of one of the German planes was rescued, and the British fighters returned safely to their bases, the announcement said.

An air ministry statement regarding Monday's German air raid on the Firth of Forth said:

"Not more than half the German aircraft are now believed to have returned home."

"Apart from the four planes brought down by British fighters and anti-aircraft and naval gun fire, several are thought to have been too crippled to complete passage over the North Sea."

This statement paid high tribute to the Royal Air Force teamwork and revealed that auxiliary pilots played a major role in fighting off the German attack.

FIELD ARTILLERY GROUP TO VISIT CINCINNATI

A detachment of the 19th Field Artillery from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., with Captain David F. Babcock commanding, will visit Circleville Friday on a recruiting trip.

The party includes veteran enlisted specialists who will demonstrate the modern 75 MM field gun and intricate fire control instruments. The Fort Hayes band will accompany the group giving concerts at each stop.

The recruiting trip of the group will cover all of Ohio except the northeast portion and the north half of West Virginia.

City officials had received no word Wednesday as to the exact time the group would arrive in Circleville.

FOUR-POINT BILL TO RELAX BAN ON SHIPS URGED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—An administration-backed four point program relaxing drastic shipping bans of the arms embargo repeal neutrality bill was laid before senate foreign relations committee Democrats today by Committee Chairman Pittman.

At the same time, a caucus of the 61 house Democrats who voted in the regular session of congress to retain the arms embargo was tentatively scheduled by Rep. O'Connor (D) Montana. He predicted the house vote on the embargo repeal bill would be "very close." At the projected caucus of embargo proponents plans will be laid to organize opposition to the administration bill.

"You see," said O'Connor, "we (the house) approved the embargo by about 40 votes at the regular session of congress, and we could lose 15 votes in the special session and still retain the embargo."

The administration bill moved toward likely approval in the senate as opposition forces based their hopes for defeat of embargo repeal on house action. Leaders on both sides predicted a final senate vote on the bill by next week.

Suggested by Pittman to meet objections of those opposing the provisions prohibiting American boats from hauling any cargoes to any belligerent possessions, the proposed relaxation program would provide:

1—Designated world areas including belligerent possessions in which American boats might engage in shipping of all commodities not defined by the President as "arms, munitions and implements of war."

2—The filing of detailed cargo specifications, including destination, stopping points, and terms, with port authorities by every U. S. vessel clearing an American port and bound for belligerent possessions permitted under the exception provision.

3—Expiration of the entire relaxation section at the conclusion of the current European war.

4—Sections which would compel the President to close down on shipping in the exempted areas whenever an American boat had been sunk with loss of American lives, and later to reopen that area to non-military American shipping when either the navy or other "proper authorities" declare the danger non-existent.

BUCKEYES KEEP AT HARD WORK FOR NEXT GAME

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18—Unshaken by legends of greatness trickling in from the north country where reside the Minnesota Gophers, Ohio State University's undefeated football squad today staged its last intensive drill before departing for Minneapolis and Saturday's Big Ten encounter.

Although the Bucks will practice for a short while tomorrow afternoon, the workout, by necessity, will be brief to enable them to catch a 5 p. m. train.

Reports emanating from Minneapolis indicate that the Gophers won't be nearly as tough as some persons believe. The Scarlet and Gray lads stack up even with Minnesota in weight, power and reserves.

Both elevens have at least two fast backs, Ohio will unleash Jimmy Strausbaugh and Jim Langhurst. Minnesota, in the speed line, has Harold Van Avery and Franck. There will be a great duel between the two bruising lines.

Neither team will be unduly hampered by injuries. There is possibility that Charlie Mason, giant tackle for Ohio State, will be prolonged action for the first time this season. He has been hurt in an injured ankle.

A large contingent of Ohio State fans will accompany the team on a special train. State's famed marching band will also make the trip.

Ducky May Be Peddled, But Not For Peanuts

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—We had intended to forget about baseball until after the football season. But there is so much talk about the Cardinals trading Joe Medwick that we feel we should tell you what we know about it from Owner Sam Breadon and others close to the St. Louis club.

Joe probably will go either to Brooklyn or Chicago next season. But not for bird-seed, and only if the Cardinal management feels that it can peddle the Carteret (N. J.) clouter without impairing what it believes to be the brightest pennant chance in the National League for 1940.

Breadon and Rickey both believe that their young team is now ready to click. They have half a dozen promising young pitchers from whom to choose two to go along with McGee, Cooper, Bowman, Davis and Lanier. That leaves the veterans, Warneke and Weiland, for relief work, or transfer. Or so the Card master minds figure.

They are also reasonably well fortified in the outfield, now that Enos Slaughter has come into his own. Not well enough that they can blow Medwick, one of the best hitters in the game, off with a kiss. But well enough that they think they could win without him if they could get a proved infielder in exchange, preferably a shortstop.

Breadon figures he owes Wrigley something on the famous Dizzy Dean trade. We figure so, too. About $180,000. That's why they may give Chicago first grab on Joe.

There are whispers that Joseph's team are getting ready to go. The matter of team morale also is important. Many batters around the league know that Medwick and Ray Blades didn't hit it off any too well last season. Blades is understood to have felt that if Joe hadn't sukked over a $2,500 salary cut during the early part of the season, he would have won the pennant in his first year as a major league pilot.

Joe is not only a great player, he is also a money player. That's one of many reasons he craves to come to Brooklyn. He looks with greedy eye on MacPhail's big crowds at Ebbets Field and the big, black baseball headlines in the metropolitan papers.

BULLIES' TOPS IN PRO LEAGUE MEET BOMBERS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18—Now leading the American Professional Football league thanks to Los Angeles' 16 to 12 win over the Cincinnati Bengals, the Columbus Bullies play the Dayton Bombers at Red Bird stadium tonight.

The league standings were shaken up considerably by the Los Angeles victory at Cincinnati last night. The Bengals were shoved down into third place and the Bullies into the top spot. The St. Louis Gunners, only team to win over Columbus, occupy second place.

Los Angeles piled a 10 to 0 lead in the first half of the game and made it 16 to 0 with but only seven minutes of the game left. Two quick touchdowns by the Bengals ended the scoring.

The Dayton club, which the Bullies meet tonight, is coached by Carl Cramer, former Ohio State backfield star. Outstanding star of the Gem City eleven is Alex Rado, 205-pound fullback from little New River State.

FIELD ARTILLERY GROUP TO VISIT CIRCLEVILLE

A detachment of the 19th Field Artillery from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., with Captain David F. Babcock commanding, will visit Circleville Friday on a recruiting trip.

The party includes veteran enlisted specialists who will demonstrate the modern 75 MM field gun and intricate fire control instruments. The Fort Hayes band will accompany the group giving concerts at each stop.

The recruiting trip of the group will cover all of Ohio except the northeast portion and the north half of West Virginia.

City officials had received no word Wednesday as to the exact time the group would arrive in Circleville.

FOUR-POINT BILL TO RELAX BAN ON SHIPS URGED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 — An administration-backed four point program relaxing drastic shipping bans of the arms embargo repeal neutrality bill was laid before senate foreign relations committee Democrats today by Committee Chairman Pittman.

At the same time, a caucus of the 61 house Democrats who voted in the regular session of congress to retain the arms embargo was tentatively scheduled by Rep. O'Connor (D) Montana. He predicted the house vote on the embargo repeal bill would be "very close." At the projected caucus of embargo proponents plans will be laid to organize opposition to the administration bill.

"You see," said O'Connor, "we (the house) approved the embargo by about 40 votes at the regular session of congress, and we could lose 15 votes in the special session and still retain the embargo."

The administration bill moved toward likely approval in the senate as opposition forces based their hopes for defeat of embargo repeal on house action. Leaders on both sides predicted a final senate vote on the bill by next week.

Suggested by Pittman to meet objections of those opposing the provisions prohibiting American boats from hauling any cargoes to any belligerent possessions, the proposed relaxation program would provide:

1—Designated world areas including belligerent possessions in which American boats might engage in shipping of all commodities not defined by the President as "arms, munitions and implements of war."

2—The filing of detailed cargo specifications, including destination, stopping points, and terms, with port authorities by every U. S. vessel clearing an American port and bound for belligerent possessions permitted under the exception provision.

3—Expiration of the entire relaxation section at the conclusion of the current European war.

4—Sections which would compel the President to close down on shipping in the exempted areas whenever an American boat had been sunk with loss of American lives, and later to reopen that area to non-military American shipping when either the navy or other "proper authorities" declare the danger non-existent.

LONDON, Oct. 18—A total of 810 officers and men was lost when the British battleship Royal Oak was torpedoed by a daring German submarine in Scapa Flow, the admiralty announced today. Survivors totaled 424.

There were indications that the Germans are preparing for a "grand attack" — a major offensive by infantrymen, supported by heavy artillery, tanks, armored cars and aviation.

French mines so far have proved effective in preventing use of tanks in the initial German assaults.

Positions Consolidated

Meanwhile, the Germans have been busy consolidating their positions in the German territory which they have reoccupied since Monday. They have been setting up field guns, observations posts, artillery batteries, automatic gun emplacements and concentrating large numbers of tanks.

The horses will draw their share of attention on West Mound Street. There is no saddle horse show this year, but the finest draft animals available will be exhibited.

BREAKDOWN OF RUSS AND TURK TALK ADMITTED

Ankara's Minister Returns To Home After Ending Moscow Confabs

PROPOSALS GO WITH HIM

Presence Of British Envoy At Rail Station Causes Red Capital Stir

MOSCOW, Oct. 18—Soviet Russia sought today to minimize the effect of the apparent breakdown in its negotiations with Turkey on such questions as closure of the Dardanelles and Russian ambitions in Bessarabia.

Less than 12 hours after Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu left for Ankara—with no agreement achieved—the official Soviet news agency, Tass, issued this statement:

"Saracoglu's visit provided a comprehensive exchange of views in a cordial atmosphere and confirmed the invariable friendly relations and common effort of both nations to maintain peace.

"The two governments reached the conclusion that it was desirable to maintain contact in future also for joint discussions of questions of interest to both."

To Be Considered

Soviet circles said Saracoglu took with him a complete record of the Soviet proposals for a pact with Turkey and that these will receive further consideration in Ankara.

Saracoglu was seen off at the railway station by two Soviet deputy foreign affairs commissioners, Vladimir Potemkin and M. Dekanosov, the envoys from Iran and Afghanistan and several ministers from the Balkan states.

(A German wireless dispatch said the presence at the station of British Ambassador Sir William Seeds and several attaches of the French embassy to bid Saracoglu farewell caused a stir. It added that the train bearing the Turkish diplomat also carried the new Russian envoy to Ankara, M. Terentjev.)

Since outbreak of the European war, Soviet Russia has been applying diplomatic pressure on Turkey, principally seeking an agreement whereby Turkey would close the vitally important Dardanelles to warships of any nation, including Britain and France, which might seek to attack the USSR.

The situation was complicated by diplomatic moves for Anglo-Turkish and Franco-Turkish pacts of mutual assistance.

No Clash Sought

One of the problems facing the Russo-Turkish negotiators was that of framing an agreement which would not clash with the obligations Turkey may undertake with Britain and France.

The worst of the nightmare which Europe is experiencing is that for some of the smaller nations there will be no awakening.

NEW CANDIDATE

You haven't heard anything about it yet, but there is a new candidate in the field for the 1940 GOP presidential nomination.

He is Senator Gerald Prentice Nye, boyish-looking North Dakotan, Townsendite and the most vocal of the isolationist leaders. He has made an average of $15,000 a year for the last few years lecturing on the munitions industry and isolationism.

Generalissimo of Nye's campaign is his new secretary, Gerald W. Movius, former Bismark, N. D., political reporter now on the government payroll at $3,900 a year, and a mysterious John W. Smith, P. O. Box 262, Lexington, Ky. Smith's name is signed to letters and literature seeking to line up Nye delegates to the Republican convention.

A recent letter bearing Smith's name read, "I sincerely hope and pray that you will uphold the noble hands of Senator Nye in his wonderful neutrality work and that you will go to the Republican convention pledged to vote for Senator Nye for the presidential nomination." Also enclosed in the letter were mimeographed press handouts lauding Nye's senatorial record and attacking the WPA.

Nye's so-far under-wraps presidential boom will be no surprise to his friends. He has long harbored secret White House ambitions. After his re-election last year he told an intimate, "Well, I am in the clear now and I can concentrate on going after the presidency. It ought to be a push-over for a Republican in 1940."

TURNED TABLES

For two years, beginning with the 1937 Supreme Court battle, the GOP delightedly sunned themselves in the glow of the hot factional warring among the Democrats. But now the tables are turned.

Harmonious for the moment, the Democrats are revelling in the rare pleasure of watching the Republicans scrap heatedly among themselves over the neutrality issue.

Still kept undercover, thanks chiefly to the firm hand of brainy Senate Floor Leader Charles McNary, this rowing has resulted in several acrimonious personal clashes between top-rung party chiefs. The bitterest was between Senator Arthur Vandenberg and Colonel Frank Knox.

Old friends, dating back to when they both were cub reporters on a Grand Rapids, Mich., paper, they are on opposite sides on lifting the embargo. Knox stands with the President on the question; Vandenberg is opposed. But this difference was not the cause of their set-to.

What touched them off was Knox's objections to Vandenberg taking a leading role in the isolationists' fight. Knox contended that by sticking himself out in front, Vandenberg was hurting the Republican party. With the party split on this issue, Knox argued that the wise course for the lead-

The Square Thing to Do

WHEN railroads were the only major form of transportation, regulating interstate commerce meant regulating the railroads and nothing else.

But today, when railroads are only part of a transportation industry, there is before Congress a carefully worked out legislative program designed to correct some of the existing inequalities in that industry.

The general attitude of Congress has been constructive. So has the general attitude of railroad employees. One of the nation's largest farm organizations has gone on record in favor of these laws.

The opposition has come largely from groups with special interests, who contend that the changes proposed would be unfair to other forms of transportation.

Now let's see about that:

What is unfair about asking a whole industry to abide by the same rules?

The railroads paid for the building of their own "superhighways" of steel—they pay out of their own pockets to maintain them—and they pay taxes on them.

What other form of transportation does these three things?

River barges and boats operate over channels provided for them with taxpayers' money at a cost of from $100,000 to a quarter of a million dollars per mile—several times what it costs a railroad to build an average mile of line.

And these channels are maintained at an annual cost to taxpayers which far exceeds the cost to railroads of maintaining an average mile of railroad. Barges and boats pay nothing for the use of these channels.

Commercial carriers on the highways do pay something toward the cost of the roads they use—but they use the same roads as 25,000,000 passenger cars whose owners pay most of the cost of building and maintaining the highways.

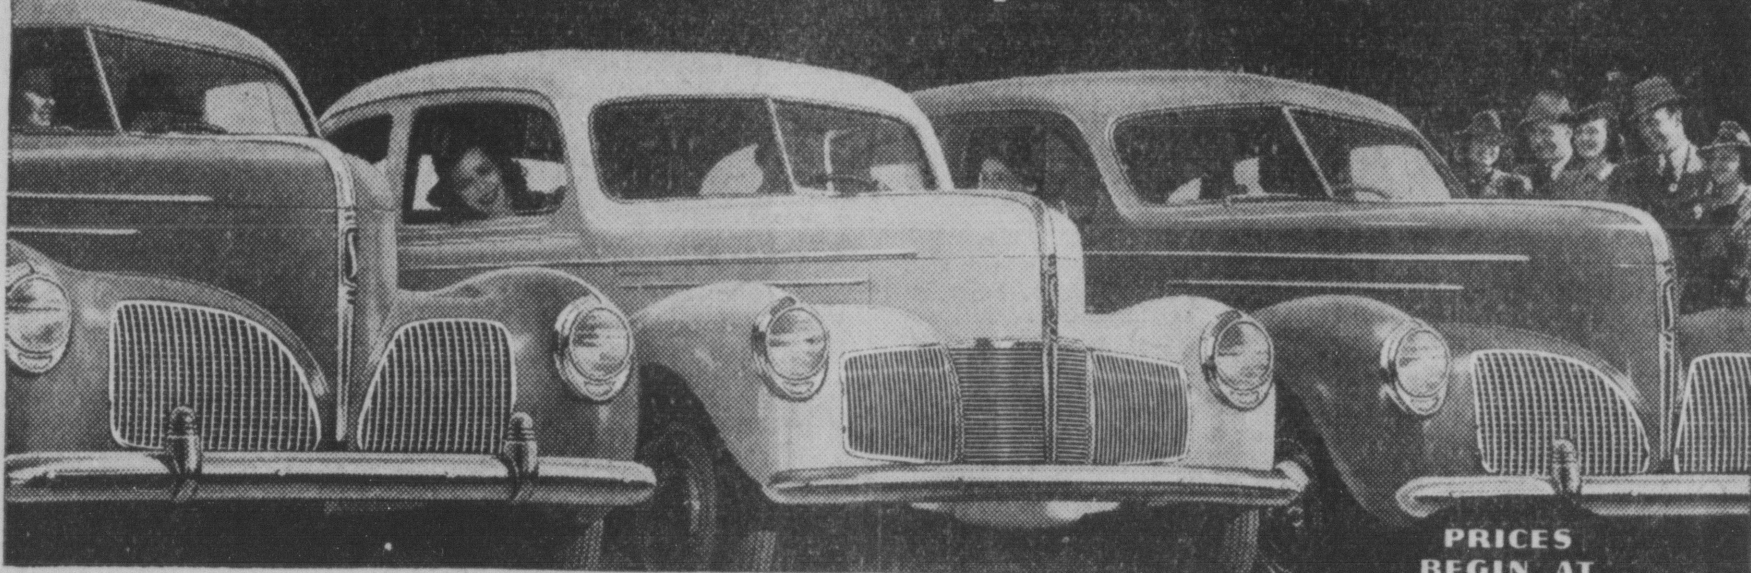

This is not criticism but facts, which have a definite bearing on competition the railroads have to meet.

So we come back to this basic economic truth: It is not fair to ask part of an industry to work under rules which do not apply to all parts alike.

BREAKDOWN OF RUSS AND TURK TALK ADMITTED

Ankara's Minister Returns To Home After Ending Moscow Confabs

Presence Of British Envoy At Rail Station Causes Red Capital Stir

MOSCOW, Oct. 18—Soviet Russia sought today to minimize the effect of the apparent breakdown in its negotiations with Turkey on such questions as closure of the Dardanelles and Russian ambitions in Bessarabia.

Less than 12 hours after Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu left for Ankara—with no agreement achieved—the official Soviet news agency, Tass, issued this statement:

"Saracoglu's visit provided a comprehensive exchange of views in a cordial atmosphere and confirmed the invariably friendly relations and common effort of both nations to maintain peace.

"The two governments reached the conclusion that it was desirable to maintain contact in future also for joint discussions of questions of interest to both."

To Be Considered Soviet circles said Saracoglu took with him a complete record of the Soviet proposals for a pact with Turkey and that these will receive further consideration in Ankara.

Saracoglu was seen off at the railway station by two Soviet deputy foreign affairs commissioners, Vladimir Potemkin and M. Dekanosov, the envoys from Iran and Afghanistan and several ministers from the Balkan states.

(A German wireless dispatch said the presence at the station of British Ambassador Sir William Seeds and several attaches of the French embassy to bid Saracoglu farewell caused a stir. It added that the train bearing the Turkish diplomat also carried the new Russian envoy to Ankara, M. Tegenjev.)

NAZIISM VS. GERMANY

ADOLF HITLER seems to be ignoring the whole point of the outer world's attitude toward his country when he shouts that "no power on earth will bring Germany to her knees."

It is not evident that the democratic powers or any other powers want to humiliate or destroy the German people. What the free and normal world outside of Central Europe wants to do is merely to stop Adolf Hitler and his weird and ruthless Nazi crew from humiliating and destroying the German people—and incidentally from destroying the rest of European civilization.

Hitler, Goering, Goebbels and Company cannot be expected to see the merit of that plan, or to acquiesce in it.

DEATH RAYS

RUMORS of some secret device possessed by the Nazi army, against which foes would be helpless, interests an Ohio scientist named Dr. Antonio Longoria, who is said to have perfected a mysterious "death ray" apparatus some years ago. In experimenting with electric waves, he found one of terrific potency in one of the "unexplored frequency bands." The machine that he made, he says, killed small animals and could have been used to kill human beings. It was so powerful that it "killed pigeons on the wing at four miles." It killed painlessly, he explains, without burning, by changing the chemistry of the blood.

But nobody can get such a machine from Dr. Longoria, or learn the secret from him. When he realized what a terrible instrument he had created, he says, he destroyed it and everything connected with it. He will have nothing to do, he says, with a device that "could wreck civilization."

It sounds weird, but possible, in the light of other known discoveries of recent years. If such devices exist, or can be produced, there is all the more reason for stopping this war, or any other war, before conscienceless and reckless men get hold of such means of destruction.

The chief essential in modern warfare is gasoline. Gas in Italy costs $1.20 a gallon. Is that why Mussolini decided to reform?

One thing to remember in any war is that neither side is so righteous or so vicious as it's represented.

WITH THE conclusion of the neutrality debate in the senate, the argument in the house of representatives won't last long. Some of the members of the lower congressional chamber are just as good stand-patters as are some of the members of the upper one for an air-tight arms embargo. However, it's been obvious from the first that legislative sentiment is predominantly favorable to permitting our sale of war materials to any country that can come and get them for cash (or, anyway, on not to exceed a 90-day credit basis) and take them away in its own vessels. And the house rules don't permit as prolonged a discussion of a pending measure as the senate's rules do.

The bill that the lawmakers finally pass will be approximately what President Roosevelt asked for. Some changes will have been made, but only in detail.

Many warm sympathizers with the president's New Deal policies have been against him on the neutrality modification issue. Several vehement anti-New Deal Democrats (including some whom he tried to purge on last election day) have supported him as to modification's desirability.

Senators Borah and Norris are split. They saw eye to eye on everything during the 1914-18 war. Now Borah's a 100 percent isolationist; Norris agrees with F. Norris' view is that lifting it, with proper qualifications, will improve our chances of keeping out of it.

BUSINESS CHIEFS WARNED

WASHINGTON—One of the most significant events at the Army's spectacular ordnance exhibition at the Aberdeen (Md.) Proving Grounds didn't get reported at all. This was a secret round-table session on "Industrial Preparedness" conducted by Brigadier General C. T. Harris, salty Assistant Chief of Ordnance, and attended by 450 select business leaders.

After giving a general outline of the Army's plans for industrial mobilization, General Harris observed, "You gentlemen probably will not like some of the compulsions that would be imposed on you. But, as I am sure I need not remind you, war enforces distasteful compulsions on everybody involved. Which gives point to the moral, 'Don't get into war if you can help it.'"

Another moral Harris pointedly tossed at his business listeners was to go easy on price boosting.

"Don't run wild on prices," he warned quietly. "You can't afford to get out of hand on that. The public would resent it and you'll run head-on into trouble. We want you to make money; we are not against that. We're all for it. But there is a difference between making a legitimate and reasonable profit and profiteering."

This thrust brought a chorus of questions as to what was considered a legitimate and reasonable profit.

"Well, I can't talk for the government," said Harris with a twinkle in his eye, "but personally I look at it this way: I had some securities a few years back that paid me six percent dividend. Now I considered that a very good return on my money—and I think the same now."

None in the audience openly challenged this contention but from sotto voce remarks it was apparent that more than one business man vigorously disagreed with Harris.

Note: The veteran officer scored a big hit personally with the business men by his deft, efficient handling of the meeting. He met an hour's barrage of questions with unfailing tact and good humor; courteously brushing aside silly ones and adroitly side-stepping inquiries he didn't want to answer.

Asthma Due to Nerves?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Is asthma due to nerves?

Partly. Asthma is caused by spasm of the bronchial muscles and these are controlled by nerves of the vegetative nervous system. In the old days one treatment was to tie a pig to the bottom of the asthmatic's bed. The grunting of the pig, imitating his own grunts, was supposed to shame the asthmatic out of his condition.

I remember a young man who was brought to the city for consultation of a severe case of asthma. As he was sitting in the train in the station waiting for a wheel chair, he saw from the window a casket being wheeled along the station platform. He thought it was for him and it frightened him so the asthma left for several years. It does not do, however, to take such isolated cases as models for the treatment of asthma. Asthma is real and cannot usually be cured by recourse to psychic treatment.

Do you recognize the virtues of hydrotherapy, and can it be given at home?

Hydrotherapy, or treatment by water, is one of the finest methods of treatment in the modern physician's armamentarium. Certainly I recognize it. The modern North American home is splendidly adapted to different forms of hydrotherapy. In Boston, in Colonial days, it was a prison offense to take a bath without a doctor's prescription. But all that is changed. Some methods of treatment by water that can be used in the modern home are:

a. The cold pack. A sheet wrung out of cold water is spread out on the bed over two blankets. The patient lies down on it, and the sheet is snugly wrapped around the body from neck to feet, then the blankets wrapped over it. Good for a cold, a fever, arthritis, sleeplessness, kidney disease, as a heart tonic, scarlet fever, skin diseases, itching.

b. The compress. Throat compress—A strip of linen, three inches wide, is wrung out of cold water and laid over the throat, being brought up to the ears and held in place by a flannel bandage that goes over the head (not around the throat to the back of the neck). Good for laryngitis, tonsillitis and any form of sore throat. Chest compress—same principle. Joint compress—same principle. Splendid for any sore joint, gout or rheumatism.

c. The douche. If you have a shower bath, rapidly alternate hot and cold water. This gives a massage to the circulation. It is called the Scotch douche. Failing this, get in a bathing suit in the back yard and have the hose turned on you. Indications—heart disease, high blood pressure, neurasthenia, fatigue.

d. The affusion. Sitting in the bath tub, have a pitcher of ice water poured over the body from a height.

f. Stupes. Hot cloths to the abdomen. Grease the abdomen first with vaseline to prevent burning, then apply flannel cloths wrung out of the hottest water that can be endured. Good for flatulence, any abdominal pain, gallstone colic, pelvic inflammation in women.

Just looking at the deal in an offhand way, it appears impossible for North to make the contract. It is, against the spade lead. But suppose East had not been one of those inveterate trump-leads. He then would have hated to lead from either minor king, and might have led a heart. ## Shadows Over Hill House

By ELLIOTT FILLION
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Peake, proprietor of Hill House, New England summer resort, is found murdered by the "spite fence" erected near her property by her estranged sister, Miss Ivy Newcomb. Previous to the murder the guests had been concerned about the poisoning of one of their number, Mrs. Rutherford, who recovered; strange sounds of a prowler on the property, and the ransacking of one of the rooms. Those at Hill House besides Dr. Neal and Josie Peake, children of the dead woman, are Sally Gordon, spending her first vacation there; close friends, Rhoda and her fiancé Duncan; Dr. Paul and Pauline Rutherford, children of Mrs. Rutherford; Cora Easton, Bruce Orton and Joseph Barry. Josie is friendly with Ann Murray, who lives at Miss Ivy's, and that infuriates her brother, Neal. He likes Cora Easton, for whom Josie has no love. The police begin their investigation. The police chief enlists the aid of Miss Gordon, then introduces Captain Lancy, well-known detective, who has been called in to take charge of the case. As Captain Lancy begins to question all of those at Hill House, Miss Ivy pays a surprise visit. During a heated argument she Ivy collapses from shock and is taken home. Then Captain Lancy begins his questioning. A heated argument between Cora Easton and Josie breaks out during the detective's examination of Sally Gordon. Josie tells the detective of finding a sicken thread of beads from Miss Easton's gown in her room, the one that had been ransacked.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

CLEARLY before me, my returning memory brought a picture of Josie in her pretty sparkling dress seated beside me at dinner, my first meal at Hill House. Again I saw the wet bedraggled hem of the same dress as she crouched before the fire, and still later, its crispness gone, its full skirt hanging limply about her as we said good night.

I stared at Josie in momentary wonder; then voiced the thought in my mind.

"But, Josie, perhaps the beads came from your own dress!"

"No, they did not," she replied decisively. "I am sure of that."

At Lancy's questioning expression, she explained: "Both Cora Easton and I have dresses embroidered with opalescent beads. Her dress is creamy white, mine a pale rose. We wore the dresses last night."

"This is how I know these beads came from her dress and not from mine. I ran in my room Saturday morning. I always clean the room myself, and I am positive I went over every inch of the rug. I put the dress on Sunday afternoon, yesterday, and I did not go into my study until this morning."

Lancy fingered his chin while he considered the matter.

"Are you willing to trust these beads in my hands, and leave me to use them as evidence against Miss Easton at the time I think best? I prefer to let her think that we have no proof of her having been in your room until I can gather other evidence. I promise you, Miss Peake, I will not neglect the information you have given me. As I told your brother, I have but one desire: to find the one who killed your mother."

Unhesitatingly, Josie laid the beads in his hand. "You do think it means something?" she asked. "I do," he replied gravely. "But, whether it means that she was in your room or someone wants us to think that she was, I cannot say yet. Tell me, Miss Peake, do you know if, before this, any beads have fallen from Miss Easton's gown?"

Josie laughed. It was a bitter laugh with no mirth in it. "Yes. I think her beads have been picked up in every room where she wore the dress."

"Then it would have been very easy for someone wishing to involve her in the ransacking of your room to pick up this string of beads and drop it there."

"But," cried Josie, in a voice decidedly shriller than her usual deep mellow tone, "who would do a thing like that?" Her face changed, she clasped her hands tightly together, her voice dropped to a whisper. "Only the murderer would do such a thing."

"I agree. And for that reason we will keep the beads a secret until we have more information. Shall we not?"

"By all means," Josie lifted her head proudly. "I do not like Cora Easton. I do not believe she is the woman my brother thinks she is; but I would not do anything to involve her in a crime of which she is innocent."

Lancy's stern face relaxed. "You have decided as I thought you would, Miss Peake. We will now recall your brother and—remember—not one word to him about the beads."

He stepped to the door and called Neal, who came promptly from the lounge. He looked inquiringly from one to the other. His face was stern and his eyes shadowed with pain. To me, he looked even more worried and anxious than before.

"Sit down, Dr. Peake," was Lancy's greeting, "and explain just why you accused Miss Newcomb of killing your mother."

Neal was plainly eager to tell the story; to lay the burden of his suspicions upon the detective. Substantially, his story was the same as that Josie told me that afternoon. But when he finished with the remodeling of Hill House and the building of the spite fence, he paused and looked searchingly at Lancy.

"The rest of what I have to say is only a combination of remarks mother—" (he sighed as he uttered the word) "made at different times and my own guesses, which, of course, may be wrong; though I do not think so. Yet it is something which you must hear to understand why I feel as I do."

"Go ahead," Lancy encouraged. "Sometimes our guesses come mighty close to the truth."

"For years we have ignored the spite fence," Neal continued. "I know mother regretted her sister's attitude, but there was nothing she could do about it and, as she felt herself absolutely in the right, she tried, with more or less success, to put the whole affair out of her mind. She had hidden as much of the fence as possible with the rose arbor and shrubbery and, unless someone passed a remark about it, there was no word of it."

At least I knew I did, though underneath it still rankled. Lancy smiled understandingly. "Sort of a continuous irritant which you'd had so long it became a commonplace."

"That's it exactly, sir. Well, as I said, I rarely gave the thing a thought any more until this spring. I had a leave of absence the first week in May and came home. When I arrived I was horrified at the alarming change in mother's appearance. You have seen her, so you know she was huge in body, but until this year her flesh was healthy, solid, with no haggard lines or bad color."

"I found she had changed entirely. I don't know whether she had actually lost weight or not; mother never would consent to be weighed or have a physical examination, but her clothes seemed to fit her as before, so I presume her size was the same. But in place of healthy color and solid appearance, her flesh was flabby, a bad color and fine lines showed on her face."

"I believe that mother's bulk was due to a glandular condition, and her unexpected change naturally worried me. I immediately asked her to allow me to give her a complete physical examination, but she flatly refused. Then I urged her to go to some doctor; after all, there was no reason for mother to have much faith in me. I am still only an interne, you know."

"I know," muttered Lancy under his breath. "Go on."

"She wouldn't do that either. I urged, argued and made so much talk about it that, for the first time since I have known her, she lost her temper. It was nothing but worry and anxiety, she told me, and my fussing was only making it worse."

"Of course, I wanted to know what the worry and anxiety was over, but she refused to tell me in detail. I thought she did say, 'I suspected this much out. You understand this was going on all the time I was at home. It wasn't until after I went back to the hospital that I put everything together and seemed to get a ray of sense out of the thing. I wrote her what I thought I had found out, but she refused to discuss the matter by letter. And when I came home two weeks ago, she seemed so much better that I didn't want to upset her again by even mentioning it.' Neal seemed to lose himself in his thoughts and was silent so long that Lancy prodded gently:

"Go on, Dr. Peake. You haven't told us a thing yet."

"I know I haven't, and it's such a nebulous thing I can't expect you to see eye to eye with me or even comprehend why I should be so uneasy. Unless you knew mother as she was before this spring and then saw her as she was—yesterday, you wouldn't understand what I mean."

"I know what he means," I boldly butted in. "Rhoda told me yesterday that Mrs. Peake wasn't so jolly and full of fun as she always had been, and that twice she had caught her looking at the spite fence and sighing. I mention this. I went on, looking squarely at Lancy, "so that you will know others besides Dr. Neal" (I couldn't call him Dr. Peake, so compromised) "felt the difference."

"I did, too," cried Josie, "but I didn't know what the trouble was." "Neither do I, except what I guessed," Neal returned grimly. "This is what I do know. This was something she felt obliged to talk over with Miss Ivy."

"With Miss Ivy?" gasped Josie. "With Miss Ivy. Mother had already tried to have an interview with her and been refused. She said to me once: 'I have to see her. She has to bear this as well as I.'"

"When I asked for more information, she refused to tell me anything. But from things she did say, a bit one day and a bit another, I learned this: Mother received a letter, I don't know whom or where from, which worried her greatly. In some way Miss Ivy was concerned in it—why or how I have no idea. Whatever the letter was, I am sure mother was afraid of something. I don't know why. I can't imagine why—but I am sure she was."

"You are right about the letter," cried Josie. "She wasn't the same after she received it. But I thought she told you about it."

"No," answered Neal wearily. "I have told you all I knew—until tonight."

NUB OF THE CONTROVERSY

The nub of the controversy is that, all along, they have, by a majority, evidently taken the president's side — that a modification of that embargo is a movement in the right direction.

In a sense, this is creditable to 'em.

Their reaction from home indisputably has been about 90 percent "pro" continuation of the Nye law—positively no American sales of munitions to any belligerent. One may say that a legislator should acquiesce in this mandate. Yet perhaps he's entitled to believe that it's mistaken. If so, possibly he is entitled to exercise his personal best judgment, despite his constituency's clamor. For one thing, he may get a disproportionately vocal howl from one particular, well-organized group, to the drowning out of its less audible opposition.

It shows his political nerve, anyhow, whether he's right or wrong.

SOL BLOOM'S PERSONALITY

The personality of Sol Bloom, chairman of the representatives' foreign affairs committee is to be reckoned with.

Sol knows more of our international relationships than all the other critics put together. He knows Europe through a microscope, from having been all over it. He's a Jew. It's an angle to be taken into consideration. Totalitarianism as of today is anti-Catholic as well as anti-Semitic. Sol is plenty broad-minded enough to be pro-Catholic as well as pro-Jewish.

It's quite a neutral qualification for an American foreign affairs mediator of today.

Another moral Harris pointedly tossed at his business listeners was to go easy on price boosting.

"Don't run wild on prices," he warned quietly. "You can't afford to get out of hand on that. The public would resent it and you'll run head-on into trouble. We want you to make money; we are not against that. We're all for it. But there is a difference between making a legitimate and reasonable profit and profiteering."

This thrust brought a chorus of questions as to what was considered a legitimate and reasonable profit.

"Well, I can't talk for the government," said Harris with a twinkle in his eye, "but personally I look at it this way: I had some securities a few years back that paid me six percent dividend. Now I considered that a very good return on my money—and I think the same now."

None in the audience openly challenged this contention but from sotto voce remarks it was apparent that more than one business man vigorously disagreed with Harris.

Note: The veteran officer scored a big hit personally with the business men by his deft, efficient handling of the meeting. He met an hour's barrage of questions with unflinching tact and good humor; courteously brushing aside silly ones and adroitly side-stepping inquiries he didn't want to answer.

OUTGOING STUFF

Not all isolationist mail in Washington is incoming. A heavy flood also is outgoing.

The National Council for the Prevention of War, headed by aggressive Frederick J. Libby and housed in the old Ulysses S. Grant building directly opposite the State Department, is daily sending out thousands of copies of a speech by Senator Borah and the first radio address of Colonel Lindbergh. And it isn't costing the NCPW a cent for postage.

Asthma Due to Nerves?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Is asthma due to nerves?

Partly. Asthma is caused by spasm of the bronchial muscles and these are controlled by nerves of the vegetative nervous system. In the old days one treatment was to tie a pig to the bottom of the asthmatic's bed. The grunting of the pig, imitating his own grunts, was supposed to shame the asthmatic out of his condition.

I remember a young man who was brought to the city for consultation of a severe case of asthma. As he was sitting in the train in the station waiting for a wheel chair, he saw from the window a casket being wheeled along the station platform. He thought it was for him and it frightened him so the asthma left for several years. It does not do, however, to take such isolated cases as models for the treatment of asthma. Asthma is real and cannot usually be cured by recourse to psychic treatment.

Do you recognize the virtues of hydrotherapy, and can it be given at home?

Hydrotherapy, or treatment by water, is one of the finest methods of treatment in the modern physician's armamentarium. Certainly I recognize it. The modern North American home is splendidly adapted to different forms of hydrotherapy. In Boston, in Colonial days, it was prison offense to take a bath without a doctor's prescription. But all that is changed. Some methods of treatment by water that can be used in the modern home are:

a. The cold pack. A sheet wrung out of cold water is spread out on the bed over two blankets. The patient lies down on it, and the sheet is snugly wrapped around the body from neck to feet, then the blankets are pulled up to the head (not around the throat to the back of the neck). Good for laryngitis, tonsillitis and any form of sore throat. Chest compress—same principle. Splendid for any sore joint, gout or rheumatism.

b. The douche. If you have a shower bath, rapidly alternate hot and cold water. This gives a massage to the circulation. It is called the Scotch douche. Failing this, get in a bathing suit in the back yard and have the hose turned on you. Indications—heart disease, high blood pressure, neurasthenia, fatigue.

c. The affusion. Sitting in the bath tub, have a pitcher of ice water poured over the body from a height.

f. Stupes. Hot cloths to the abdomen. Grease the abdomen first with vaseline to prevent burning, then apply flannel cloths wrung out of the hottest water that can be endured. Good for flatulence, any abdominal pain, gallstone colic, pelvic inflammation in women.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper.

The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Shadow Over Hill House

By ELLIOTT FILLION

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Peake, proprietor of Hill House, New England summer resort, is found murdered by the "spite fence" erected near her property by her estranged sister, Miss Ivy Newcomb. Previous to the murder the guests had been concerned about the poisoning of one of their number, Mrs. Rutherford, who recovered; strange sounds of a prowler on the property, and the ransacking of one of the rooms. Those at Hill House besides Dr. Neal and Josie Peake, children of the dead woman, are Sally Gordon, spending her first vacation there; her close friends, Rhoda and her fiancé Duncan; Dr. Paul and Pauline Rutherford, children of Mrs. Rutherford; Coral Easton, Bruce Orton and Joseph Barry, Josie is friendly with Alan Murray, who lives at Miss Ivy's and that infuriates her brother, Neal. He likes Coral Easton, for whom Josie has no use. The police begin their investigation. The police chief enlists the aid of Miss Gordon, then introduces Captain Lancy, well-known detective, who has been called in to take charge of the case. As Captain Lancy begins to question all of those at Hill House, Miss Ivy pays a surprise visit. During heated argument Miss Ivy collapses from shock and is taken home. Then Captain Lancy begins his questioning of Coral Easton and Josie breaks out during the detective's examination of Sally Gordon. Josie tells the detective of finding a silken thread of beads from Miss Easton's gown in her room, the one that had been ransacked.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

Clearly before me, my returning memory brought a picture of Josie in her pretty sparkling rosy dress seated beside me at dinner, my first meal at Hill House. Again I saw the wet bedraggled hem of the same dress as she crouched before the fire, and still later, its crispness gone, its soft skirt hanging limply about her as we said good night.

I stared at Josie in momentary wonder; then voiced the thought in my mind.

"But, Josie, perhaps the beads came from your own dress!"

"No, they did not," she replied decisively. "I am sure of that."

At Lancy's questioning explanation, she explained: "Both Coral Easton and I have dresses embroidered with opalescent beads. Her dress is creamy white, mine a pale rose. We wore the dresses last night."

"This is how I know these beads came from her dress and not from mine. I ran the vacuum cleaner over the rug in my room Saturday morning. I always clean the room myself, and I am positive I went over every inch of the rug. I put the dress on Sunday afternoon, yesterday, and I did not go into my study until this morning."

Lancy fingered his chin while he considered the matter.

"Are you willing to leave these beads in my hands and trust me to use them as evidence against Miss Easton at the time I think best? I prefer to let her think that we have no proof of her having been in your room until I can gather other evidence. I promise you, Miss Peake, I will not neglect the information you have given me. As I told your brother, I have but one desire: to find the one who killed your mother."

Unhesitatingly, Josie laid the beads in his hand. "You do think it means something?" she asked.

"I do," he replied gravely. "But, whether it means that she was in your room or someone wants us to think that she was, I cannot as yet determine. Tell me, Miss Peake, do you know if, before this, any beads have fallen from Miss Easton's gown?"

Josie laughed. It was a bitter little sound with no mirth in it. "Yes. I think her beads have been picked up in every room where she wore the dress."

Then it would have been very easy for someone wishing to involve her in the ransacking of your room to pick up this string of beads and drop it there."

"But," cried Josie, in a voice decidedly shriller than her usual deep mellow tone, "who would do a thing like that?" Her face changed, she clasped her hands tightly together, her voice dropped to a whisper. "Only the murderer would do such a thing."

"I agree. And for that reason we will keep the beads a secret until we have more information. Shall we not?"

"By all means," Josie lifted her head proudly. "I do not like Coral Easton. I do not believe she is the woman my brother thinks she is; but I would not do anything to involve her in a crime of which she is innocent."

Lancy's stern face relaxed. "You have decided as I thought you would, Miss Peake. We will now recall your brother and—remember—not one word to him about the beads."

He stepped to the door and called Neal, who came promptly from the lounge. He looked inquiringly from one to the other. His face was stern and his eyes shadowed with pain.

To me, he looked even more worried and anxious than before. "Sit down, Dr. Peake," was Lancy's greeting, "and explain just why you accused Miss Newcomb of killing your mother."

Neal was plainly eager to tell the story; to lay the burden of his suspicions upon the detective. Substantially, his story was the same as that Josie told me that afternoon. But when he finished with the remodeling of Hill House and the building of the spite fence, he paused and looked searchingly at Lancy.

"The rest of what I have to say is only a combination of remarks mother—" (he sighed as he uttered the word) "made at different times and my own guesses, which, of course, may be wrong, though I do not think so. Yet it is something which you must hear to understand why I feel as I do."

"Go ahead," Lancy encouraged. "Sometimes our guesses come mighty close to the truth."

"For years we have ignored the spite fence," Neal continued. "I know mother regretted her sister's attitude, but there was nothing she could do about it, as she felt herself absolutely in the right, she tried, with more or less success, to put the whole affair out of her mind. She had hidden as much of the fence as possible with the rose arbor and shrubbery and, unless someone passed a remark about it, which was seldom, we forgot it was there. At least, I know I did, though underneath it still rankled."

Lancy smiled understandingly. "Sort of a continuous irritant which you'd had so long it became a commonplace."

"That's it exactly, sir. Well, as I said, I rarely gave the thing a thought any more until this spring. I had a leave of absence the first week in May and came home. When I arrived I was horrified at the alarming change in mother's appearance. You have seen her, so you know she was huge in body, but until this year her flesh was healthy, solid, with no haggard lines or bad color."

"I found she had changed entirely. I don't know whether she had actually lost weight or not; mother never would consent to be weighed or have a physical examination, but her clothes seemed to fit her as before, so I presume her size was the same. But in place of healthy color and solid appearance, her flesh was flabby, a bad color and fine lines showed on her face."

"I believe that mother's bulk was due to a glandular condition, and her unexpected change naturally worried me. I immediately asked her to allow me to give her a complete physical examination, but she flatly refused. Then I urged her to go to some doctor; after all, there was no reason for mother to have much faith in me. I am still only an interne, you know."

"I know," muttered Lancy under his breath. "Go on."

"She wouldn't do that either. I urged, argued and made so much talk about it that, for the first time since I have known her, she lost her temper. It was nothing but worry and anxiety, she told me, and my fussing was only making it worse."

"Of course, I wanted to know what the worry and anxiety was over, but she refused to tell me in detail. From things she did say, I deduced this much. You understand this was going on all the time I was at home. It wasn't until after I went back to the hospital that I put everything together and seemed to get a ray of sense out of the thing. I wrote her what I thought I had found out, but she refused to discuss the matter by letter, and when I came home two weeks ago, she seemed so much better that I didn't want to upset her again by even mentioning it."

Neal seemed to lose himself in his thoughts and was silent so long that Lancy prodded gently: "Go on, Dr. Peake. You haven't told us a thing yet."

"I know I haven't, and it's such a nebulous thing I can't expect you to see eye to eye with me or even comprehend why I should be so uneasy. Unless you knew mother as she was before this spring and then saw her as she was—yesterday, you wouldn't understand what I mean."

"I know what he means," I boldly butted in. "Rhoda told me yesterday that Mrs. Peake wasn't so jolly and full of fun as she always had been and that twice she had caught her looking at the spite fence and sighing. I mention this."

I went on looking squarely at Lancy, "so that you will know others besides Dr. Neal" (I couldn't call him Dr. Peake, so compromised) "felt the difference."

"I did, too," cried Josie, "but I didn't know what the trouble was." "Neither do I, except what I guessed," Neal returned grimly. "This is what I do know. There was something she felt obliged to talk over with Miss Ivy."

"With Miss Ivy!" gasped Josie. "With Miss Ivy? Mother had already tried to have an interview with her and been refused. She said to me once: 'I have to see her. She has to hear this as well as I.'"

"When I asked for more information, she refused to tell me anything. But from things she did say, a bit one day and a bit another, I learned this: Mother received a letter, I don't know whom or where from, which worried her greatly. In some way Miss Ivy was concerned in it—why or how I have no idea. Whatever the letter was, I am sure mother was afraid of something. I don't know why—I can't imagine why—but I am sure she was."

"You are right about the letter," cried Josie. "She wasn't the same after she received it. But I thought she told you about it."

"No," answered Neal wearily. "I have told you all I knew—until tonight."

Hawaii and Its D. A. R. Discussed At Meeting

Mrs. C. F. Bowman On Program Tuesday Evening

Mrs. C. F. Bowman presented an interesting paper on "Hawaii, America's Outpost and its D.A.R." and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker discussed and explained the Bigelow Amendments, Tuesday evening, during the meeting of Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of Mrs. Meeker Terwilliger, East Main Street. Gifts for Ellis Island were also taken to this session, the contributions being received by Mrs. Harp Van Riper, a member of the Ellis Island committee.

Mrs. C. C. Watts, regent, called the meeting to order, the group singing one verse of "America" led by Mrs. James Moffitt, with Miss Abbe Mills Clarke at the piano. The ritualistic work was led by Mrs. Glenn I. Nickerson, chaplain. After the salute to the flag, Mrs. William Mack, secretary, read her report and called the roll. Mrs. Essie Schlear, treasurer, read her monthly report. Mrs. Watts gave a comprehensive report of the district meeting held at Marysville, September 26.

Mrs. Bowman in her paper told of many reasons why we should be interested in Hawaii. She mentioned first the lure of the islands, explaining the customs of greeting and farewell. She said that the Hawaiian Islands are composed of eight volcanic islands, which originally were called the Sandwich Islands, having many highways and each having at least one or two airports. The most important island is Oahu where our naval base, Honolulu, and Waikiki Beach are located. Hawaii is the largest, the show spot being the fire pit of Kilauea Crater. She mentioned the climate of the islands as delightful and said that everyone plays in Hawaii, swimming, tennis, polo, surf riding and outrigger being a few of the sports. She told of the festival days and missionary work.

Mrs. Bowman presented an interesting picture of the educational background of the islands. She spoke of Pearl Harbor which is eight miles from Honolulu and is our naval base being large enough to berth our entire navy, out of view of the ocean. This is the largest military post under the American flag. Roger's Airport, near Honolulu, she said, is the largest in America.

Mrs. Bowman told of many excellent reasons why Hawaii should be annexed as a forty-ninth state, an investigation in 1937 by 12 representatives and senators finding the territory to be a modern unit of American Commonwealth with a political, social and economic structure of the highest type.

June 9, 1938, a bill was introduced in Congress to enable the people of Hawaii to enact a constitution, form a state government and to be admitted to the Union on an equal footing with the original states. It is anticipated that a plebiscite concerning annexation will be held at the 1940 general election in Hawaii.

In telling of DAR Chapters in Hawaii, Mrs. Bowman extended greetings to Pickaway Plains Chapter from the Aloha and the William and Mary Chapters of the islands sent by their regents, Mrs. Laura Andrews and Mrs. Julia Davis. The Aloha Chapter has 135 members.

In connection with the talk, Mrs. Moffitt sang "Aloha Oe" by Queen Kamehameha Liliuokalani.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by Mrs. Terwilliger and members of her assisting committee including Mrs. W. Emerson Downing, Miss Mary Heffner, Mrs. Charles Gusman, Mrs. Blenn R. Bales, Mrs. Van

A Stylish Investment

FOR MOST young business girls, a winter coat is an investment for several seasons and its purchase a serious matter. Will the lines be smart for two or three years? Will the color become obnoxious? Will the wool wear well? Undoubtedly, the girl who can have but one coat will do better by herself if she chooses black, a simple silhouette and a tough fabric. Such coats as the one shown have these points in their favor, and yet are surprisingly low-priced. The style is interesting as it is, but will take furs or a fur jacket, and all the color in accessories the wearer wants to add. The coat is fully interlined, banded at the neck and squared at the shoulders.

CONNOLLY, OAKIE, FOSTER

Variety is the keynote of Bing Crosby's program Thursday, when character actor Walter Connolly, Comedian Jack Oakie, Movie Villain Preston Foster, and the 16-year-old marimba player Doris Peterson all pay the Music Hall a visit.

The regular reception committee, made up of the Music Mails and John Scott Trotter's orchestra, in addition to the ever-present Bing, will all be on hand for the broadcast over the NBC red network at 10 p. m.

Jackie Oakie will miss his old sidekick, Bob Burns, who's currently vacationing but a ribbing session with Bing will be the order of the evening's business. Walter Connolly and Preston Foster will also check in for "pear-shaped" interviews as Crosby calls them.

CLIFF CATCHES UP

After consulting his little black book of telephone numbers for the first time in two years, Cliff Barbour finally finds Judy Wright free to see him in the episode of "One Man's Family" to be broadcast on Thursday. Judy was the twenty-third girl Cliff called after having found the other twenty-two were either married or had moved away.

This marks Cliff's first date since his wife died over a year ago.

The title of the chapter of the serial to be heard over the NBC red network at 8 p. m. is, "The Skipper Passes on Judy Wright."

RADIO BRIEFS

Frank Luther of the Luther-Layman Singers has been asked to organize an orchestra for a road tour. The plan is for him to baton the crew and double with Zora their radio commitments will probably cause them to turn down the offer.

Peter Van Steeden, maestro on the Fred Allen Show and George Jessel's "Celebrity Program," is being mentioned for a third show. A full hour of orchestral novelties is in mind.

Unique and lasting is the gift just presented to Johnny Green's new baby by the vocalists who appear with the maestro on "Johnny Presents." It's a special recording of a group of lullabies and nursery rhymes for the child's later enjoyment.

Mark Warnow, Gabriel Heatter's bandleader on "We, the People," likes to reminisce about the not-so-good days with David Sarnoff, head of RCA. The two went to school together in New York's lower East Side.

Hawaii and Its D. A. R. Discussed At Meeting

Mrs. C. F. Bowman On Program Tuesday Evening

Mrs. C. F. Bowman presented an interesting paper on "Hawaii, America's Outpost and Its D.A.R." and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker discussed and explained the Bigelow Amendments, Tuesday evening, during the meeting of Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the home of Mrs. Meeker Terwilliger, East Main Street. Gifts for Ellis Island were also taken to this session, the contributions being received by Mrs. Harp Van Riper, a member of the Ellis Island committee.

Mrs. C. C. Watts, regent, called the meeting to order, the group singing one verse of "America" led by Mrs. James Moffitt, with Miss Abbe Mills Clarke at the piano. The ritualistic work was led by Mrs. Glenn I. Nickerson, chaplain. After the salute to the flag, Mrs. William Mack, secretary, read her report and called the roll. Mrs. Essie Schlear, treasurer, read her monthly report. Mrs. Watts gave a comprehensive report of the district meeting held at Marysville, September 26.

Mrs. Bowman in her paper told of many reasons why we should be interested in Hawaii. She mentioned first the lure of the islands, explaining the customs of greeting and farewell. She said that the Hawaiian Islands are composed of eight volcanic islands, which originally were called the Sandwich Islands, having many highways and each having at least one or two airports. The most important island is Oahu where our naval base, Honolulu, and Waikiki Beach are located. Hawaii is the largest, the show spot being the fire pit of Kilauea Crater. She mentioned the climate of the islands as delightful and said that everyone plays in Hawaii, swimming, tennis, polo, surf riding and outrigger being a few of the sports. She told of the festival days and missionary work.

Mrs. Bowman presented an interesting picture of the educational background of the islands. She spoke of Pearl Harbor which is eight miles from Honolulu and is our naval base being large enough to berth our entire navy, out of view of the ocean. This is the largest military post under the American flag. Roger's Airport, near Honolulu, she said, is the largest in America.

Mrs. Bowman told of many excellent reasons why Hawaii should be annexed as a forty-ninth state, an investigation in 1937 by 12 representatives and senators finding the territory to be a modern unit of American Commonwealth with a political, social and economic structure of the highest type.

June 9, 1938, a bill was introduced in Congress to enable the people of Hawaii to enact a constitution, form a state government and to be admitted in the Union on an equal footing with the original states. It is anticipated that a plebiscite concerning annexation will be held at the 1940 general election in Hawaii.

In telling of DAR Chapters in Hawaii, Mrs. Bowman extended greetings to Pickaway Plains Chapter from the Aloha and the William and Mary Chapters of the islands sent by their regents, Mrs. Laura Andrews and Mrs. Julia Davis. The Aloha Chapter has 135 members.

In connection with the talk, Mrs. Moffitt sang "Aloha Oe" by Queen Kamehameha Liliuokalani.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by Mrs. Terwilliger and members of her assisting committee including Mrs. W. Emerson Downing, Miss Mary Heffner, Mrs. Charles Gusman, Mrs. Blenn R. Bales, Mrs. Van

A Stylish Investment

FOR MOST young business girls, a winter coat is an investment for several seasons and its purchase a serious matter. Will the lines be smart for two or three years? Will the color become obnoxious? Will the wool wear well? Undoubtedly, the girl who can have but one coat will do better by herself if she chooses black, a simple silhouette and a tough fabric. Such coats as the one shown have these points in their favor, and yet are surprisingly low-priced. The style is interesting as it is, but will take furs or a fur jacket, and all the color in accessories the wearer wants to add. The coat is fully interlined, banded at the neck and squared at the shoulders.

HARTNETT MAY BE RETAINED AS CUBS' MANAGER

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Gabby Hartnett's chances of being retained as manager of the Chicago Cubs for 1940 appeared rosier than heretofore today following another conference between Hartnett and Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Bruins.

Indicating he and his manager had come close to an understanding, Wrigley made plain he contemplates no early change in the Cubs' management, but does look for something of a new deal for the team.

"What I am hoping for," Wrigley said, "is a closer-knit organization. Hartnett apparently did not understand this. I think he does now. It never was a question of his not having authority. He had it and could have had more at any time, as he has now."

"So, I'd put the status of the manager this way: Hartnett remains as manager until he is satisfied he can't do the work, or until I become satisfied that he can't."

Gabby himself appeared pleased with the arrangement, although so far as is known he still has not been offered a new contract. He said:

"I think everything is going to turn out all right. We need some changes for next season and, with everybody working together, I'm sure we'll be able to make some headway."

Red Armstrong at Greenfield is having his troubles, poor fellow . . . Red has been on top for so long that it is just second nature for him to expect to win all his ball games. . . . He lost Lefty Miller by a broken arm, and now word comes along that Eldon Newland, mighty nifty halfback, may be out for the year with chronic appendicitis; that's the same thing that got Miller. . . . Without Newland, Greenfield might as well give up the ghost, if that has not already been done. . . . Tiger graders, who broke their fast over the McClain team, sent Newland to the sidelines after some smashing tackles by Biff Bowsher and some more defensive stalwarts after Newland had played a grand game. . . .

Down Wilmington way Bob McNemar of the News-Journal is giving Circleville a chance to do some surprising in its first season in the South Central Ohio. . . . He writes that "Roy Black's Circleville team is definitely in the SCL picture after its victory over Frankfort in a game that was almost turned into a riot by the alleged slugging of the Frankfort boys". . . . The News-Journal scribe writes, too, that Wilmington's victory over Hillsboro is another thing since the Indians had been figured to walk away with the SCL title. . . . "Greenfield is the only team definitely out," he scribes, "and Washington C. H. is in the best position to win with two victories in as many starts, but many fans believe that the fighting and hard tackling Hillsboro team will beat the Blue Lions when these clubs meet". . . .

That's Wilmington's slant. . . . Roy Black's boys are taking their games one at a time, showing improvement in each. . . . By the time they are ready for Wilmington, Washington C. H. and Hillsboro, barring any further injuries, the News-Journal writer's declaration that "Circleville is definitely in the SCL picture" will be a certainty.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18—Gabby Hartnett's chances of being retained as manager of the Chicago Cubs for 1940 appeared rosier than heretofore today following another conference between Hartnett and Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Bruins.

Indicating he and his manager had come close to an understanding, Wrigley made plain he contemplated no early change in the Cubs' management, but does look for something of a new deal for the team.

"What I am hoping for," Wrigley said, "is a closer-knit organization. Hartnett apparently did not understand this. I think he does now. It never was a question of his not having authority. He had it and could have had more at any time, as he has now."

"So, I'd put the status of the manager this way: Hartnett remains as manager until he is satisfied he can't do the work, or until I become satisfied that he can't."

Gabby himself appeared pleased with the arrangement, although so far as is known he still has not been offered a new contract. He said:

"I think everything is going to turn out all right. We need some changes for next season and, with everybody working together, I'm sure we'll be able to make some headway."

GOPHERS DRILL IN DEFENSE AS BIG TILT NEARS

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 18—Line play came in for particular attention today as Minnesota's Gophers worked to be in top form for Ohio State's juggernaut. Coach Bernie Bierman apparently anticipates the Buckeye backs will favor the tackles in line smashes, and stressed defense at those positions.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 18—There was no let up of blocking and tackling practice today as Coaches continued to stress Northwestern's line play for the eleven's clash with Wisconsin this week. The Wildcats have been vulnerable to line bucks and end-around plays to date.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 18—Linesmen came in for attention today as Coach Fritz Ciesler of Michigan worked to smooth out ragged blocking he said he noticed in the Wolverines' victory over Iowa last week. Pass offensive also was emphasized.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 18—Two stars of Notre Dame's win over Southern Methodist came into their own today as the Irish prepared for the Navy game at Cleveland Saturday. Milt Piepul, junior fullback who ripped through S.M.U. for many gains last week, took the place of Joe Thiesing on the varsity, and Harry Stevenson, Jr., was assured of at least a 50-50 honors with Bob Saggau at left half.

About This And That In Many Sports

Although the beauty parade judging will not have been completed before the game starts tonight, it is a safe belief that at 8:30 o'clock stands at the high school athletic field will be crowded with persons there to watch Roy Black's Terrific Tigers do battle with Bremen's Oilers. . . . The grid game is a Pumpkin Show week feature and a place is being saved for the new Miss Pumpkin Show and her court, but it is almost certain that competition—although it may be delayed—will be started before the parade and judging have been concluded* * *

Weather permitting, the crowd may set a record for the high school field this year for, after all, a team that wins two ball games in a row after being in the dumps for two years should receive support* * *

Red Armstrong at Greenfield is having his troubles, poor fellow . . . Red has been on top for so long that it is just second nature for him to expect to win all his ball games. . . . He lost Lefty Miller by an ailment and Don Grate by a broken arm, and now word comes along that Eldon Newland, mighty nifty halfback, may be out for the year with chronic appendicitis: that's the same thing that got Miller. . . . Without Newland Greenfield might as well give up the ghost, if that has not already been done. . . . Tiger gridgers, who broke their fast over the McClain team, sent Newland to the sidelines after some smashing tackles by Biff Bowsher and some more defensive stalwarts after Newland had played a grand game* * *

Down Wilmington way Bob McNemar of the News-Journal is giving Circleville a chance to do some surprising in its first season in the South Central Ohio. . . . He writes that "Roy Black's Circleville team is definitely in the SCL picture after its victory over Frankfort in a game that was almost turned into a riot by the alleged slugging of the Frankfort boys". . . . The News-Journal scribe writes, too, that Wilmington's victory over Hillsboro is another thing since the Indians had been figured to walk away with the SCL title. . . . "Greenfield is the only team definitely out," he scribbles, "and Washington C. H. is in the best position to win with two victories in as many starts, but many fans believe that the fighting and hard tackling Hillsboro team will beat the Blue Lions when these clubs meet"* * *

That's Wilmington's slant. . . . Roy Black's boys are taking their games one at a time, showing improvement in each. . . . By the time they are ready for Wilmington, Washington C. H. and Hillsboro, barring any further injuries, the News-Journal writer's declaration that "Circleville is definitely in the SCL picture" will be a certainty.

KINSEY STORE WINDOW WINS DISPLAY PRIZES

Award Of $25 Presented By Judges Following Tour Of Business Area

KROGER COMPANY SECOND

Many Details Considered During Inspection For Pumpkin Show Cash

Show windows of the I. W. Kinsey men's store, 125 North Court Street, were adjudged Tuesday evening as the outstanding in the Circleville business district by judges who inspected the uptown area to select the five stores that were best dressed for the annual Pumpkin Show.

The Kinsey store received much praise from the judges, Pierre D. Hale, of the Columbus Retail Merchants' Association; Edward Ferguson, advertising director for The Fashion, Columbus, and Nathan R. Zahn, bulletin editor of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants.

Second in the choice of the judges was the window of the Kroger store, West Main Street, and third was the Griffith and Martin window, West Main Street. The first three prizes were $25, $10 and $5 respectively.

Honorable mention was received by the Mason Bros. store, North Court Street, and the Circleville Paint Co., South Court Street.

The window decoration contest was sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants' Association.

The judges praised many of the store decorations, which they studied in great detail. Some they criticized because of overcrowding of displayed merchandise. Several others that might have been judged were not lighted during the evening.

All stores in the business district were urged to participate and Circleville business organization leaders were pleased with the response received although, they said, many more should have decorated to add to the Pumpkin Show spirit.

Judging was based on the most effective window from the standpoint of selling appeal to the customer of the display of merchandise in the window. Windows were rated on the cleanliness of glass, floor and background, artistic arrangement, sales appeal, emphasis of style, value or quality of goods and originality.

BUND TO START DRIVE FOR FUND TO HELP FRITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—Leaders of the German-American Bund today worked out details of a plan to shower the nation with pamphlets soliciting funds for the defense of Fritz Kuhn, the Bund leader who is awaiting trial on Oct. 30 on charges of stealing $14,560 from his own organization.

The pamphlets assert that "Fritz Kuhn is the Bund" and that "the entire weight of a political machine" apparently is being used against the German-American organization. Their distribution will be arranged through all Bund agencies in the country and other "interested agencies" said one official who estimated that 500,000 copies would be issued.

FOX HUNTERS TO MEET AT LOGAN

Big Meeting Opens Oct. 29, Continues Until Nov. 4; Features Planned

One of the really big annual sporting events in Ohio is the yearly field trials, bench show and sport carnival of the Ohio State Fox Hunters Association, to be held at Logan from October 29 to November 4.

The field trials start each morning at daybreak and continue till noon. This is a colorful affair, several thousand spectators following the hounds on foot and on horseback in a typical south Ohio hill country setting. Many of the nation's finest fox hounds are entered in these field trials and on the bench. Entries are received from all over the Midwest, the South, and the New England States.

Afternoons and evenings are given to various events and Pickaway county sportsmen will find a real assortment of sport on this year's program. Trap and skeet shoots, small bore and muzzle loading rifle matches will provide the marksmen with plenty to do; horseshoe matches, rod and reel casting contests, and archery promise plenty of competition. One of the high spots of this year's program is a two day horse show to be held on Thursday and Friday, November 2 and 3. It is the season's final saddle horse show in the Midwest. The axeman's and saw team contests for the championship of Ohio will draw some of the best talent in the State. This is on Wednesday, November 1. The final day, Saturday, November 4 has been designated as Pioneer Day and will feature the sports of a hundred years ago, including an ox roast and an old time rail splitting match.

Winners of the various events will take away almost $1,500 in prize money and over sixty trophies with a value close to $2,000.

BILLINGS FREE, PLANS TO WED, OPEN JEWELRY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18—Warren K. Billings, released from Folsom prison yesterday after serving 23 years of a life sentence, discussed wedding and business plans today with his bride-elect.

As slight as her diminutive 41-year-old fiance, the dark-eyed future Mrs. Billings is Miss Josephine Rudolph, 38, a former San Mateo librarian, now a timekeeper on a WPA housekeeping project.

They met five years ago in San Francisco during one of the hearings of the celebrated Tom Mooney-Warren Billings case. She affirmed her belief that Billings was innocent of the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

Ohio Republicans Strike At Two Proposed Amendments To Constitution

TAFT GIVEN SUPPORT

'Second Choices' Will Be Selected To Carry Party Support

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18—Indorsement of U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft as Ohio's "favorite son" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and Gov. John W. Bricker for a second term plus definite opposition to the Bigelow amendments today constituted the chief work of the GOP state central committee.

Meeting in Columbus, the committee also took a definite stand against the proposed civil service referendum which the legislature decided to submit to the voters in November.

Ed Schorr, chairman of the Republican state committee, was named head of a group of five to compose formal resolutions covering the Taft-Bricker indorsements and to select "second choices" for both positions.

Vigorous Against Bigelow

The central committee struck vigorously at the Bigelow amendments which propose pensions of $50 a month to all persons over 60—$80 to married couples—and simplification of methods for placing initiative proposals on the ballot. Of the first amendment, the committee said:

"The cost would be more than $300,000,000. It would double real estate taxes. It would bring about removal of industry from Ohio. It would increase unemployment and place a first mortgage on every taxation dollar."

In expressing opposition to the proposed referendum on the administration's civil service "Ripper Bill," committee members declared:

"The referendum was designed to perpetuate the cohorts of the previous administration and the flagrant disregard of the merit system."

TWO MANSFIELD PRISON INMATES UP FOR PAROLE

Virgil Dixon, Lancaster Pike, and Weldon Cox, Adelphi, inmates of the Ohio Reformatory at Mansfield who were sentenced from Pickaway County, are eligible for parole hearings after December 1.

Dixon was sentenced in March, 1937 for burglary and larceny involving the entering of Walnut Township School. Cox was sentenced to one to 20 years on a charge of forgery.

Olson handed him his commutation of sentence. Miss Rudolph waited for Billings at the home of his attorney, George T. Davis, in San Francisco.

The couple said no date for the wedding has been set. "No other plans will be made without consulting her," Billings said. "I don't know whether we'll look for a little jewelry and watch repair store in California and make our home here or go to New York. My three brothers and sisters live there."

KINSEY STORE WINDOW WINS DISPLAY PRIZES

Award Of $25 Presented By Judges Following Tour Of Business Area

KROGER COMPANY SECOND

Many Details Considered During Inspection For Pumpkin Show Cash

Show windows of the I. W. Kinsey men's store, 125 North Court Street, were adjudged Tuesday evening as the outstanding in the Cincinnati business district by judges who inspected the uptown area to select the five stores that were best dressed for the annual Pumpkin Show.

The Kinsey store received much praise from the judges, Pierre D. Hale, of the Columbus Retail Merchants' Association; Edward Ferguson, advertising director for The Fashion, Columbus, and Nathan R. Zahn, bulletin editor of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants.

Second in the choice of the judges was the window of the Kroger store, West Main Street, and third was the Griffith and Martin window, West Main Street. The first three prizes were $25, $10 and $5 respectively.

Honorable mention was received by the Mason Bros. store, North Court Street, and the Circleville Paint Co., South Court Street.

The window decoration contest was sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants' Association.

The judges praised many of the store decorations, which they studied in great detail. Some they criticized because of overcrowding of displayed merchandise. Several others that might have been judged were not lighted during the evening.

All stores in the business district were urged to participate and Circleville business organization leaders were pleased with the response received although, they said, many more should have decorated to add to the Pumpkin Show spirit.

Judging was based on the most effective window from the standpoint of selling appeal to the customer of the display of merchandise in the window. Windows were rated on the cleanliness of glass, floor and background, artistic arrangement, sales appeal, emphasis of style, value or quality of goods and originality.

BUND TO START DRIVE FOR FUND TO HELP FRITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—Leaders of the German-American Bund today worked out details of a plan to shatter the nation with pamphlets soliciting funds for the defense of Fritz Kuhn, the Bund leader who is awaiting trial on Oct. 30 on charges of stealing $14,560 from his own organization.

The pamphlets assert that "Fritz Kuhn is the Bund" and that "the entire weight of a political machine" apparently is being used against the German-American organization. Their distribution will be arranged through all Bund agencies in the country and other "interested agencies" said one official who estimated that 500,000 copies would be issued.

FOX HUNTERS TO MEET AT LOGAN

Big Meeting Opens Oct. 29, Continues Until Nov. 4; Features Planned

One of the really big annual sporting events in Ohio is the yearly field trials, bench show and sport carnival of the Ohio State Fox Hunters Association, to be held at Logan from October 29 to November 4.

The field trials start each morning at daybreak and continue till noon. This is a colorful affair, several thousand spectators following the hounds on foot and on horseback in a typical south Ohio hill country setting. Many of the nation's finest fox hounds are entered in these field trials and on the bench. Entries are received from all over the Middle West, the South, and the New England States.

Afternoons and evenings are given to various events and Pickaway county sportsmen will find a real assortment of sport on this year's program. Trap and skeet shoots, small bore and muzzle loading rifle matches will provide the marksmen with plenty to do; horseshoe matches, rod and reel casting contests, and archery promise plenty of competition. One of the high spots of this year's program is a two day horse show to be held on Thursday and Friday, November 2 and 3. It is the season's final saddle horse show in the Midwest. The axeman's and saw team contests for the championship of Ohio will draw some of the best talent in the State. This is on Wednesday, November 1. The final day, Saturday, November 4 has been designated as Pioneer Day and will feature the sports of a hundred years ago, including an ox roast and an old time rail splitting match.

Winners of the various events will take away almost $1,500 in prize money and over sixty trophies with a value close to $2,000.

BILLINGS FREE, PLANS TO WED, OPEN JEWELRY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18—Warren K. Billings, released from Folsom prison yesterday after serving 23 years of a life sentence, discussed wedding and business plans today with his bride-elect.

As slight as her diminutive 41-year-old figure, the dark-eyed future Mrs. Billings is Miss Josephine Rudolph, 38, a former San Mateo librarian, now a timekeeper on a WPA housekeeping project.

They met five years ago in San Francisco during one of the hearings of the celebrated Tom Mooney-Warren Billings case. She affirmed her belief that Billings was innocent of the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

Frequently at Folsom Billings was permitted to take time out from his duties as prison clock repairman to visit with Miss Rudolph in the warden's office.

Shy and somewhat frightened by the battery of news and movie cameras that greeted Billings as he stepped out the penitentiary gates and photographed him while Gov. Culbert L. Olson handed him his commutation of sentence, Miss Rudolph waited for Billings at the home of his attorney, George T. Davis, in San Francisco.

The couple said no date for the wedding has been set.

"No other plans will be made without consulting her," Billings said. "I don't know whether we'll look for a little jewelry and watch repair store in California and make our home here or go to New York. My three brothers and sisters live there."

Billings said he was "glad to be free" and "glad to be with her."

G. O. P. ENTERS DRIVE AGAINST BIGELOW PLAN

Ohio Republicans Strike At Two Proposed Amendments To Constitution

TAFT GIVEN SUPPORT

'Second Choices' Will Be Selected To Carry Party Support

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18—Indorsement of U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft as Ohio's "favorite son" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and Gov. John W. Bricker for a second term plus definite opposition to the Bigelow amendments today constituted the chief work of the GOP state central committee.

Meeting in Columbus, the committee also took a definite stand against the proposed civil service referendum which the legislature decided to submit to the voters in November.

Ed Schorr, chairman of the Republican state committee, was named head of a group of five to compose formal resolutions covering the Taft-Bricker indorsements and to select "second choices" for both positions.

Vigorous Against Bigelow

The central committee struck vigorously at the Bigelow amendments which propose pensions of $50 a month to all persons over 60—$80 to married couples—and simplification of methods for placing initiative proposals on the ballot. Of the first amendment, the committee said:

"The cost would be more than $300,000,000. It would double real estate taxes. It would bring about removal of industry from Ohio. It would increase unemployment and place a first mortgage on every taxation dollar."

In expressing opposition to the proposed referendum on the administration's civil service "Ripper Bill," committee members declared:

"The referendum was designed to perpetuate the cohorts of the previous administration and the flagrant disregard of the merit system."

TWO MANSFIELD PRISON INMATES UP FOR PAROLE

Virgil Dixon, Lancaster Pike, and Weldon Cox, Adelphi, inmates of the Ohio Reformatory at Mansfield who were sentenced from Pickaway County, are eligible for parole hearings after December 1.

Dixon was sentenced in March, 1937 for burglary and larceny involving the entering of Walnut Township School. His sentence was one to 15 years. Cox was sentenced to one to 20 years on a charge of forgery.

LEIPSI DRIVER BRUISED AS AUTO STRIKES POLE

The Plymouth car of William Beckford, Leipsic, was towed to the J. H. Stout Garage for repairs, Wednesday, after leaving Route 23 and striking a telephone pole near Baer's Tourist Camp. Mr. Beckford escaped with bruises.

A rear tire on the car blew out causing Mr. Beckford to lose control. The accident happened about 8 o'clock.
